Reminiscences of the Pioneer States of that State.
During the present depression in business, the justice of the court, Justice of the Peace Kelso, and ex-judge John Henderson have been killing time by looking over the docket kept away back in the sixties, and have reconstructed some queer decisions of the dispensers of justice in those days. In 1867 a certain well-known citizen filed the position of J. P. and fined a defendant $100 and costs, took his note for sixty days and discharged him.
The record does not show, however, whether the note was ever paid or protested.
